Customer Problem Statement:

Students, faculty members, and library staff need a seamless and efficient way to request, track, and manage library resources through a centralized platform, but the current process is often manual, fragmented, and lacks real-time visibility, leading to delays, unclear request statuses, and difficulty accessing materials when needed; from the customer's perspective, this creates frustration and reduces productivity, especially during time-sensitive academic work, while library staff face challenges in handling large volumes of requests and maintaining effective communication, ultimately resulting in operational inefficiencies and a poor user experience that highlights the need for a smart, automated library request workflow in ServiceNow.

I am	Describe customer with 3-4 key characteristics – who are they?	An employee from the research team, new to the company, working on a specific project with tight deadlines.
I'm trying to	List their outcome or "job" the care about – what are they trying to achieve?	To quickly find and check out a critical technical book needed for their research.
but	Describe what problems or barriers stand in the way – what bothers them most?	Finding the title is easy, but discovering the copy is already checked out or is in a different location, causing delays.
because	Enter the "root cause" of why the problem or barrier exists – what needs to be solved?	The existing library system doesn't show real-time availability across all branches and doesn't offer a waiting list.
which makes me feel	Describe the emotions from the customer's point of view – how does it impact them emotionally?	Anxious and frustrated that a simple book request is delaying my project, which is stressful.
